Custer had some skirmishing turther to tho left. After an Interesting little fight, the enemy was everywhere handsomely repuised. The enemy, however, bivouseked last night not far from where the tight closed

This morning General Bheridan, baving halted the principal portion of his command in the vicinity of Fisher's Hill, instructed General Turbert to attack the enemy and drive him away from such close proximity to our rear. Torbert went to work immediate-Ily, and carried out both the letter and the l | spirit of the order. Accordingly Custer's | and lierritt's divisions made a vigorous as [ sault on the enemy at an early hour this ] murning. He made a bold attack, and drove the enemy back about a mile to a strong position on the brook. There the enemy made a determined stand. The rebels were advantagetributed considerably to strengthen a position which was naturally formidable. General Custer, however, threw in his whole command, made three magnificent charges, and at last carried the position by assault. At the same time a junction was formed with General Merritt on the turnpike. Bharp skirmishing in the front did not seem to indicate anything decisive until Devin's brigade succeeded in striking the enemy on the flark. This produced consternation in the rebel ranks in Merritt's front. The whole division was then pushed forward and followed the
