TAIN TO BALTIMORE.

If the cutside world is making haste to recognize the growing importance and the tine prospects opening up to Baltimore,—if our city is aiready so thronged with new comers as to crowd it bayond all precedent, labor welcomed and readily domiciled here, rendering it impossible to get tenant houses, why not recognize the fact ourselver? Our neighbor—the American, of yesterday—dwell at some length on the chances opened up to ! Baltimore by the direct raliread communicatipa about to be established with the city of | Erie, a fine port on the lake of the same name, I and which is one hundred miles nearer to Ba!thither by the Northern Central runs through a most important portion of Pennsylvania and ments. New York, not only to far as it cute across. other great routes to the seaboard from the West and Northwest, but it embraces also the remerkable oil and coal localities, and the great lumber producing region, much of the products of which, with a little enterprise, might be made tributary to the growth and presperity of our city. With our attention thus called to the new chances opening up for us, let us see what advantages we have already within ourselves. such as might and must induce capital to move hither, such as might make the advantages present here strike all who have the chance to sean thom.

In the first place, then, we have a genisl climate compared to our neighbors further Morth, one consequence of which is, that our harber is more easily kept open than any other of like importance on the coast. In the next, as a result of the same fact, the splendid water power adjoining the city is more readily available through the inclement scason, whilst agricultural, mining and commercial pursuits | are all easily carried on, Massachus: tts, the model State in these particulars being mean- and Christian character. while blocked up with ice and snow.
