But there is some compensation for all this. a modicum of satisfaction for the loyal men ch the State. Mr. Johnson, fortunately, showed his true colors in good time, and before he had gotten into a position to do still more damage to the Union carre. Had he held on a little longer in the same course, had he still affected a loyalty it seems his conduct by no means justitled, it is by no means impossible that he might have had the judicial mantle of the deceased Chief Justice fall upon his own shoulders; and then, firmly fixed for life it | many of your people can hardly be expected that position, who knows what mischief he obs fros-regarding his Presidential path might have accomplished—who knows how potent he might have made the great tribunal outside position enableaus, in some degree, to Calvert, is the Agent. in chielding from just punishment guilty corspirators against the nation's unity and life? feet us be profoundly thankful that the case is no worse—that he never can again command injurious to a great cause, beyond what he has re-election in England, and in Europe, and stock of clothing cannot be excelled. Bereft of all influence with any, except for purposes of mischief, it is time for him-to use a fercible phrase-te "rubside."

The Rebel Bapeys in Missouri Cheer for Mc leilar.

The Utles Hereld publishes a letter giving full particulars of the recent horrible massacre in cold blood, of Union coldiers captured near Centralia, in Missouri, by the gavage crew of rebels invading that State with Price. The letter eage: "All the officers were easiped. This may

We expect no quarter, and shall most certainly not give sur, as for this murder we hold every rebel and sympathizer responsible These men observed for McClellan, and sweat to kill every Lincoln soldier, and drive from the State every redical voter. Until after the election we shall remain in arms, and drill and patrol every day, not hoping for peace till after that time.

May God give us the power and an opportunity to averge there brave and unfortunate man, is our chief prayer. I could give you details of this affair trat would herrify you, but the plain facts are sufficient for all who have one spark of humanity in them. [From the New York Tribure.] A Letter from John Bright.

In giving to the public the following impressive and timely letter from the most indefatigable and infinential British vindicator of our National struggle for existence, it is fit that we should say that it was in no manner solicited or invited.
