

DAILY CLIPPER.

W. W. WALES, Publisher.

THURSDAY, OCT. 27, 1864.

TO ADVERTISERS.

As we have no Advertising Agent, and desire to have our patrons present their favors directly at the counter of the Clipper Office, the following exhibit of our regular rates will be found of service:

1 Square 1 Time.....	$.50
" 3 ".....	1.00
" 6 ".....	1.75
" 1 Month.....	10.00
" 3 Months.....	30.00
" 6 ".....	60.00
" 1 Year.....	300.00

ONE SQUARE CONTAINS SIX LINES OF SPACE.

LOCAL NEWS.

Lance of a Steam Tug.—There was launched yesterday from the ship yard of Messrs. John T. Hardy & Brother, on the south side of the Basin, a steam tug of the following dimensions:—Length on deck, 30 feet; beam, 15 feet, and depth, 6 feet. She was built for Mr. William E. Wardall, principal foreman, and Wm. K. Tamblyn, in the service of Messrs. Hardy. Her model is truly beautiful, of very light draught of water, and for strength and durability of workmanship, cannot be surpassed. The engine and boiler are in course of construction at the works of Mr. John C. Miller, who has made all the latest improvements in steam marine power. This tug will have all the interior accommodations lately introduced, and will be finished in the early part of December. Her model indicates unusual speed, and she will doubtless prove quite a valuable accession to the steam tonnage of the port.

Selection of School Teachers.—At the regular meeting of the Board of School Commissioners, held on Tuesday evening, the following teachers were elected:—Miss Elizabeth A. Colton, assistant female primary school No. 1; Miss H. H. Hayes, assistant male primary school No. 6; Henrietta McAllister, female primary school No. 14, and Mr. A. Wilkeson, first assistant night school No. S. Charles W. Virtus was nominated as assistant in night school No. S. and Mr. Frost for the same position.

The Pursued Legion.—This band of veterans, with greatly thinned ranks, reached this city yesterday from the front, their time of service having expired. The men looked half dead, and were in great want of subsistence. An entertainment is to be given to the Legion this afternoon at 3 o'clock, at the armory of the City Guards, corner of Guy and Baltimore streets. The entertainment is provided by the city, and doubles the returned soldiers will enjoy themselves.

The Imprisoned Baltimore Merchants.—One, Woolley yesterday received orders from Washington to deliver to Morris, Simon Frank & Co. the key of their establishment, and their business will go on as usual. Notice is given to the members of the General Assembly that the cases of the other parties recently arrested, although it is supposed the case of Messrs. Hamilton, Easter & Co. will be disposed of in a few days.

The Draft.—There will be no draft in the city to day. The words which have not as yet filled their quota are working hard to accomplish that end, and it is thought that in a few days the entire quota will be filled.

On the 1st of November the General Assembly will be called to meet to consider the case of the other parties recently arrested, although it is supposed the case of Messrs. Hamilton, Easter & Co. will be disposed of in a few days.

French Homeless.—A negro man named James E. Williams was arrested yesterday by officer Hank, charged with stealing a lot of clothing, and was confined in the State prison. He was examined by Justice Spicer for the action of the Grand Jury.

Seriously Injured.—Patrick Grey was thrown from the top of a hay wagon which he was driving along Fayette street, near Green, yesterday. He was quite severely injured. His son, a policeman, conveyed him to his residence in the western section of the city, where his wounds were attended to.

From Street Theatre.—The engagement of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Williams, the talented couple, appeared in "All Hallow Eve," and the "Customs of the Country." The farce of the Robbers of the Heath will also be given.

Maryland Institute Fair.—The great fair of the Maryland Institute closed most satisfactorily on Monday evening last. The hall continues to be crowded every evening; the music discourses by the Blues' Band giving much satisfaction.

Sale of a Dwelling.—Mr. Samuel H. Govey sold yesterday his dwelling, No. 175 Madison street, the building subject to a ground rent of $30, purchased by Am. Gordon for $1,250.

Holiday Street Theatre.—Mrs. Bowers continues to draw very large houses at the Holiday. The charming shepherdess as Mrs. Heller in the Stranger, and as Juliet in the Merchant. To-morrow evening Mrs. B. takes a benefit.

The City Council.—Both branches of the City Council met this afternoon. The ordinance providing for dividing the city into three districts, as provided in the new Constitution, will most probably be disposed of.

Sale of a Schooner.—Mr. Samuel H. Govey, auctioneer, sold yesterday the schooner Forward, for $1,200, purchased by Mr. George R. Keen.

Aiding Rebels.—John Gooding was yesterday committed to the military prison in arms against the Government.

Ridiculed.—Lawrence Ward, arrested some days since on the charge of selling liquor to soldiers, and confined in the military prison, was yesterday freed and released.

GEOFFREY SENNOIS.—Is a wit in the face of an audience—but he has in him what is better than sparkling oratory. He has the ferocious Democracy of a true man and a true politician. He carried his point with him at his trial by saying:

"Gentry is the only thing that stands between us and Union peace. Wind it home to the head of our war."

"When the youth in the Arabian story treed the cavern of evil in search of the lost treasure, after killing the lions and giants, he approached the mighty gate behind which lay the prize. And he looked and lo! the figure had a venerable face of his mother. He before him, and the gates were open, so accents of pity bade him back on peril of his life—but the chosen of Heaven said to himself, 'Verily, it resembles a woman of the Holy—what death the tenant of God on the side of?' And he pitiably gazed at the figure, whose name of God—and 'till it was a death, wretched toiling, leaving the treasure under the reward.'

"The young son, You have trodden the career of evil up to the gate of the lost treasure, after killing the lions and giants,

he approached the mighty gate behind which lay the prize."

"And he pitiably gazed at the figure, whose name of God—and 'till it was a death, wretched toiling, leaving the treasure under the reward.'

"The young son, You have trodden the career of evil up to the gate of the lost treasure, after killing the lions and giants,

he approached the mighty gate behind which lay the prize."

"And he pitiably gazed at the figure, whose name of God—and 'till it was a death, wretched toiling, leaving the treasure under the reward.'

"The young son, You have trodden the career of evil up to the gate of the lost treasure, after killing the lions and giants,

he approached the mighty gate behind which lay the prize."

"And he pitiably gazed at the figure, whose name of God—and 'till it was a death, wretched toiling, leaving the treasure under the reward.'

"The young son, You have trodden the career of evil up to the gate of the lost treasure, after killing the lions and giants,

he approached the mighty gate behind which lay the prize."

"And he pitiably gazed at the figure, whose name of God—and 'till it was a death, wretched toiling, leaving the treasure under the reward.'

"The young son, You have trodden the career of evil up to the gate of the lost treasure, after killing the lions and giants,

he approached the mighty gate behind which lay the prize."

"And he pitiably gazed at the figure, whose name of God—and 'till it was a death, wretched toiling, leaving the treasure under the reward.'

"The young son, You have trodden the career of evil up to the gate of the lost treasure, after killing the lions and giants,

he approached the mighty gate behind which lay the prize."

"And he pitiably gazed at the figure, whose name of God—and 'till it was a death, wretched toiling, leaving the treasure under the reward.'

"The young son, You have trodden the career of evil up to the gate of the lost treasure, after killing the lions and giants,

he approached the mighty gate behind which lay the prize."

"And he pitiably gazed at the figure, whose name of God—and 'till it was a death, wretched toiling, leaving the treasure under the reward.'

"The young son, You have trodden the career of evil up to the gate of the lost treasure, after killing the lions and giants,

he approached the mighty gate behind which lay the prize."

"And he pitiably gazed at the figure, whose name of God—and 'till it was a death, wretched toiling, leaving the treasure under the reward.'

"The young son, You have trodden the career of evil up to the gate of the lost treasure, after killing the lions and giants,

he approached the mighty gate behind which lay the prize."

"And he pitiably gazed at the figure, whose name of God—and 'till it was a death, wretched toiling, leaving the treasure under the reward.'

"The young son, You have trodden the career of evil up to the gate of the lost treasure, after killing the lions and giants,

he approached the mighty gate behind which lay the prize."

"And he pitiably gazed at the figure, whose name of God—and 'till it was a death, wretched toiling, leaving the treasure under the reward.'

"The young son, You have trodden the career of evil up to the gate of the lost treasure, after killing the lions and giants,

he approached the mighty gate behind which lay the prize."

"And he pitiably gazed at the figure, whose name of God—and 'till it was a death, wretched toiling, leaving the treasure under the reward.'

COURT PROCEEDINGS.

Criminal Court.—Judge Bond.—George C. Maud, Esq., deputy State's Attorney, prosecuting. The following business engaged the attention of this Court yesterday:

"George Epler, indicted for selling liquor on Sunday, in two cases, gave bail with Emanuel Elkin in $500 in each case. Charles Knob, indicted for selling liquor on Sunday, gave bail with Justice Weaver in $500.

The court adjourned until Friday.

Orphans' Court.—Before the Hon. Judges Hopkins and Hoffman. The following business occupied the attention of this court yesterday:

"Letters testamentary were granted on the estate of Edward Flint to J. Robert Israel.

"An exemplified copy of the will of Abram H. Hart, of New York, was exhibited.

"In the matter of the petition of Elizabeth C. Shields vs. Ann Murray, the Court passed an order binding the child, Ann Murray, to her Shields.

City Circuit Court.—Before Judge Alexander. The following business was transacted in this Court yesterday:

"James Boyle, next friend of Ellen Daily, application for a writ of habeas, &c., granted.

Superior Court.—Before Hon. Judge Hartman. The following business occupied the attention of this Court yesterday:

"John Heckman vs. Edward G. Frazier—replevin—before reported. Jury out.

Assize Court.—Today, Nov. 672 to 702.

LOUIS NAPOLEON.

The Boston Bulletin thus speculates upon the chances of life, and the succession of Louis Napoleon:

"There is our French acquaintance, Emperor Napoleon, for example. Not a little has been said for a fortnight past, of an attack under which he has suffered, but of the nature and extent of which no one seems to be able to obtain anything like accurate knowledge. He has rheumatism, he has rheumatic gout, he has sciatica, bladders and loins are cut short, and great pain seems to be his; or that, or other rendering him incapable of self defense, warning that the bands in the glass of the fastidious are fast running out, and that his life, like our little liver, must soon be rounded with a sleep. The effect is sensational, as the Imperial gentleman does not wear well, while his wear hard upon him. It is felt that he could not leave this noisy world for the silent, and without causing it to become known that he is dead, he would be buried in the French Government, and the common conjecture is, that when he shall fall into the grave, the Imperial monarchy will fall with him. Will the house of his family would be buried with him. When he shall exchange the purple for the wooden surcoat appointed for all living, France is expected to change her Government, but what other form of government she shall assume, no one knows—he is the French Government, and the common conjecture is, that when he shall fall into the grave, the Imperial monarchy will fall with him. Will the house of his family would be buried with him. When he shall exchange the purple for the wooden surcoat appointed for all living, France is expected to change her Government, but what other form of government she shall assume, no one knows—he is the French Government, and the common conjecture is, that when he shall fall into the grave, the Imperial monarchy will fall with him. Will the house of his family would be buried with him. When he shall exchange the purple for the wooden surcoat appointed for all living, France is expected to change her Government, but what other form of government she shall assume, no one knows—he is the French Government, and the common conjecture is, that when he shall fall into the grave, the Imperial monarchy will fall with him. Will the house of his family would be buried with him. When he shall exchange the purple for the wooden surcoat appointed for all living, France is expected to change her Government, but what other form of government she shall assume, no one knows—he is the French Government, and the common conjecture is, that when he shall fall into the grave, the Imperial monarchy will fall with him. Will the house of his family would be buried with him. When he shall exchange the purple for the wooden surcoat appointed for all living, France is expected to change her Government, but what other form of government she shall assume, no one knows—he is the French Government, and the common conjecture is, that when he shall fall into the grave, the Imperial monarchy will fall with him. Will the house of his family would be buried with him. When he shall exchange the purple for the wooden surcoat appointed for all living, France is expected to change her Government, but what other form of government she shall assume, no one knows—he is the French Government, and the common conjecture is, that when he shall fall into the grave, the Imperial monarchy will fall with him. Will the house of his family would be buried with him. When he shall exchange the purple for the wooden surcoat appointed for all living, France is expected to change her Government, but what other form of government she shall assume, no one knows—he is the French Government, and the common conjecture is, that when he shall fall into the grave, the Imperial monarchy will fall with him. Will the house of his family would be buried with him. When he shall exchange the purple for the wooden surcoat appointed for all living, France is expected to change her Government, but what other form of government she shall assume, no one knows—he is the French Government, and the common conjecture is, that when he shall fall into the grave, the Imperial monarchy will fall with him. Will the house of his family would be buried with him. When he shall exchange the purple for the wooden surcoat appointed for all living, France is expected to change her Government, but what other form of government she shall assume, no one knows—he is the French Government, and the common conjecture is, that when he shall fall into the grave, the Imperial monarchy will fall with him. Will the house of his family would be buried with him. When he shall exchange the purple for the wooden surcoat appointed for all living, France is expected to change her Government, but what other form of government she shall assume, no one knows—he is the French Government, and the common conjecture is, that when he shall fall into the grave, the Imperial monarchy will fall with him. Will the house of his family would be buried with him. When he shall exchange the purple for the wooden surcoat appointed for all living, France is expected to change her Government, but what other form of government she shall assume, no one knows—he is the French Government, and the common conjecture is, that when he shall fall into the grave, the Imperial monarchy will fall with him. Will the house of his family would be buried with him. When he shall exchange the purple for the wooden surcoat appointed for all living, France is expected to change her Government, but what other form of government she shall assume, no one knows—he is the French Government, and the common conjecture is, that when he shall fall into the grave, the Imperial monarchy will fall with him. Will the house of his family would be buried with him. When he shall exchange the purple for the wooden surcoat appointed for all living, France is expected to change her Government, but what other form of government she shall assume, no one knows—he is the French Government, and the common conjecture is, that when he shall fall into the grave, the Imperial monarchy will fall with him. Will the house of his family would be buried with him. When he shall exchange the purple for the wooden surcoat appointed for all living, France is expected to change her Government, but what other form of government she shall assume, no one knows—he is the French Government, and the common conjecture is, that when he shall fall into the grave, the Imperial monarchy will fall with him. Will the house of his family would be buried with him. When he shall exchange the purple for the wooden surcoat appointed for all living, France is expected to change her Government, but what other form of government she shall assume, no one knows—he is the French Government, and the common conjecture is, that when he shall fall into the grave, the Imperial monarchy will fall with him. Will the house of his family would be buried with him. When he shall exchange the purple for the wooden surcoat appointed for all living, France is expected to change her Government, but what other form of government she shall assume, no one knows—he is the French Government, and the common conjecture is, that when he shall fall into the grave, the Imperial monarchy will fall with him. Will the house of his family would be buried with him. When he shall exchange the purple for the wooden surcoat appointed for all living, France is expected to change her Government, but what other form of government she shall assume, no one knows—he is the French Government, and the common conjecture is, that when he shall fall into the grave, the Imperial monarchy will fall with him. Will the house of his family would be buried with him. When he shall exchange the purple for the wooden surcoat appointed for all living, France is expected to change her Government, but what other form of government she shall assume, no one knows—he is the French Government, and the common conjecture is, that when he shall fall into the grave, the Imperial monarchy will fall with him. Will the house of his family would be buried with him. When he shall exchange the purple for the wooden surcoat appointed for all living, France is expected to change her Government, but what other form of government she shall assume, no one knows—he is the French Government, and the common conjecture is, that when he shall fall into the grave, the Imperial monarchy will fall with him. Will the house of his family would be buried with him. When he shall exchange the purple for the wooden surcoat appointed for all living, France is expected to change her Government, but what other form of government she shall assume, no one knows—he is the French Government, and the common conjecture is, that when he shall fall into the grave, the Imperial monarchy will fall with him. Will the house of his family would be buried with him. When he shall exchange the purple for the wooden surcoat appointed for all living, France is expected to change her Government, but what other form of government she shall assume, no one knows—he is the French Government, and the common conjecture is, that when he shall fall into the grave, the Imperial monarchy will fall with him. Will the house of his family would be buried with him. When he shall exchange the purple for the wooden surcoat appointed for all living, France is expected to change her Government, but what other form of government she shall assume, no one knows—he is the French Government, and the common conjecture is, that when he shall fall into the grave, the Imperial monarchy will fall with him. Will the house of his family would be buried with him. When he shall exchange the purple for the wooden surcoat appointed for all living, France is expected to change her Government, but what other form of government she shall assume, no one knows—he is the French Government, and the common conjecture is, that when he shall fall into the grave, the Imperial monarchy will fall with him. Will the house of his family would be buried with him. When he shall exchange the purple for the wooden surcoat appointed for all living, France is expected to change her Government, but what other form of government she shall assume, no one knows—he is the French Government, and the common conjecture is, that when he shall fall into the grave, the Imperial monarchy will fall with him. Will the house of his family would be buried with him. When he shall exchange the purple for the wooden surcoat appointed for all living, France is expected to change her Government, but what other form of government she shall assume, no one knows—he is the French Government, and the common conjecture is, that when he shall fall into the grave, the Imperial monarchy will fall with him. Will the house of his family would be buried with him. When he shall exchange the purple for the wooden surcoat appointed for all living, France is expected to change her Government, but what other form of government she shall assume, no one knows—he is the French Government, and the common conjecture is, that when he shall fall into the grave, the Imperial monarchy will fall with him. Will the house of his family would be buried with him. When he shall exchange the purple for the wooden surcoat appointed for all living, France is expected to change her Government, but what other form of