REMARKABLE PETRIFICATION .- Mr. J. Rose Browne, who has been on a visit to the East Walker River Mining District, returned to Aurora a few days since, bringing with blm one of the most remarkable petrifications we ever cam or beard of. It is that of a piece of wood about fitteen inches long and about four in thickness, apparently pine, which is not only thoroughly petritisd, but is also thoroughly impregnated with Iron. The bark on one tide of the piece is in an almost perfect state of preservation, while on the other side the grain or growth of the wood color of this remarkable curiosity is a bluishblack, similar to that of rich from ore. It is heavier than any of the ordinary kinds of stone met with in this country, and, when like an anvil.
