NO PAPER ON FRIDAY.
To meet the wants of our subscribers to prevent the absence of the Day of Thanksgiving and Prayer, no paper will be issued from this office tomorrow—Friday.

DAY OF THANKSGIVING AND PRAYER.

Today is appointed by the Governor of the State of Maryland and by the National Executive a special day for thanksgiving to the Almighty for the many blessings that have been bestowed upon us—a people—of prayer that these blessings may be continued to us. And although the country has been torn by civil war, and partitioned in it, we have subjected to terrible sufferings, yet as a nation we have been comparatively—especially in comparison with others, have been favored with quiet and abundance. And now—such is our prosperity—that we are willing to set aside our selves to be in view what we have attained, and peculiar to our condition, we have greater blessings yet in store.

Out all the turmoil and trouble brought upon the land through the eyes of rebels, we ambitioned but for gains of all the evils and darkness that reigned upon our side of the future when the fearful conflict began; good because of evil; while their promises now out that was ever received to be it will be the part of prosperity and greatness as exhibited by even the most hopeful in our destiny. While in the past our progress as a commonwealth was indeed slow to induce feelings of thankfulness, yet the fact has been made plain by late events—that compared to other States more fortunate in their condition, our progress was retarded, was not all that could have been wished. And whilst we may well deplore the terrible suffering that has come upon our country as a whole, yet we are to consider that these fatal events have opened to us a new career; that fortune in our position, there appears no absolutely no limit to our future greatness and prosperity.

Let us then keep the day of Thanksgiving and Prayer commanded to our observance under such circumstances, with that devout earnestness becoming a religion—a God fearing people; a people who intended recognizing the divinity of nations as in the spiritual keeping of a Being of infinite benevolence—One who does not willingly afflict, and who has His own wise purposes to carry out through the revolutions and changes that come upon humanity.

BALTIMORE HOLIDAYS.—We are indebted to Messrs. Fisher & Doane, booksellers and publishers, 64 Baltimore street, for two prints of art in the line of gifts for the holidays—the first entitled “A Visit from St. Nicholas,”—the other, a plastered representation of events in the story of Robinson Crusoe. Our readers will desire something pretty and appropriate, should look in on them.

DAVIS'S SPEECH IN EUROPE.
As we anticipated, the admiring of Jeff Davis in his Boston speech, as to the wretched condition of his affairs, has well-nigh destroyed all confidence in his government, on the other side of the Atlantic. The London Standard, of October 25th, says:

“In our last issue we quoted largely from the speeches of the rebel President in regard to the deplorable condition of the South, especially of Virginia. We cited his diatribe against the North, and his contemptuous reference to the Union, as well as his ill-tempered attack on the proportion of the troops who were actually engaged without battle. This was represented as absurd, as ludicrous, and as being one of the most remarkable things in military history. It is a mockery to speak about the units, the x's, and the determination of a people of whom such things can be inferred. The wonder is, that such a state of discipline in the Southern armies have kept them bound with so much courage and tenacity, and upon the whole, with so much occasional success. The statement of the rebel chief was calculated to produce as much despair, as well as to remove all hopes of ultimate triumph among the adherents of the South in this country, that they repudiated it with scorn as a foreign act, and stigmatized it as a traitor to our cause, as for our credulity. Time, however, is the grand arbiter, and truth must ever perish by its application. The ennobled & independent of the Daily News has tilted at this point, we think, by an appeal to further facts regarding the speech of President Davis.”

After quoting from the News, the Standard goes on to say:—“For the rest, we trust we shall have no more absurd logics, and abut credulity, and short-sightedness. The thing is a mass of hole, very ugly, to look, but facts tell, and full of callousness to rebellion. It is necessary to see how a people so circumstanced and as army so demoralized can be any possibility make good their accusations.”

“The world, and, doubtless, much to do with the change of opinion which the London Standard intimated.”
