The first customer was an artist, who gave and thenceforth Mandsley's shop had plenty naually identified; an invention, too, which all familiar with the use of the turning lathe now consider indispensable. Mandaley subsequently became a famous manufacturer o machinery; but even when he employed numbers of men, and found it necessary to labor more with the head than the hands, he used to go often to the forge and work enthuslastically with the sledge hammer, just from sheer love of his art. In time his shop became as it were a college of mathematical art, from which the best mechanics were proud to graduats.
