The Americo Liberians are to our colored population no new people -Many of them are their own friends, relatives and former schoolmates and neighbors. A successful sugar planter on the St. Paul's river thus addressed his correspondent at New York, under date of May . 1764: "I tell you, sir, that though we are in Liberia, there is tenderness of feeling, a care, a relationship existing in our breasts towards the people of the United States of America. that nothing but that we are with our friends, it matters erner." This but exhibits the regard for Americans which pervades the citizens of the United States. Worthy persons of all classes and enterprising mechanics of all branches are invited. No man of any ocexpetion or profession, if he be but ladustrious and intelligent, can locate there without being a benefit to the public and to himself.
