No. 1 is a well 30 feet in diameter, full of tarry oil, bolling with the escape of march gas. It is situated in the midst of a gentle slope, forming part of a terrace or plais, elevated at least 1,000 feet above the sea. This plain, which is about one and a quarter miles long by three-fourths of is mile wide, appears to have been formed by the long accumulation of asphaltum, from the evaecution of the everflow of this great ell-spring. Tonnyaca | The depth of this great mass of suphaltum is, of course, a matter of conjecture, as no explorations to estimate its contents on a mile square at one ings. $1; single admission 30 cent ; gallery, yard in depth, which would give over three mil. every style and price.
