NO MORE PEACE MISSIONS—NO PREMIUMS ON TREASON.

We observe with great regret, that missions to Richmond continue; and public opinion,—with one or two exceptions,—silent and sullen, appears to acquiesce in a policy certainly repugnant to everything that has gone before. This is certainly not the entertainment to which loyal men were invited when they gathered in force to put down the rebellion, in the manner to which they were challenged by a set of as unscrupulous and blood-thirsty gamblers with the destinies of a people, as ever called for the earnest abhorrence of the good and true. They looked the possible results in the face coolly when they began: collected arms, drilled their dupes, and when they fancied themselves duly prepared, they inaugurated a reign of treachery in seizing on the property and means of defence placed amongst them by the Government, in a way to stamp them forever as dead to every principle of honor, and even of common honesty.—Imposing upon the nation for high office the most magnificent villains in their own ranks, they were seen deliberately using the confidence of both Government and people, in getting arms distributed to their own section under the most false pretexts. They scattered the then small army of the republic in the same way; portions of it in Texas; other portions in the far West, whilst the ships of the navy were sent on like idle quests into every sea. Official oaths were nothing. From the beginning, we say, treachery, the basest treachery, was stamped on the very forehead of the rebellion, and what is more—it is worn proudly there.

And the swindling policy of obtaining arms and munitions of war in arsenals did not suffice. The Government, in that trusting faith always characteristic of a profound belief in the patriotism and honesty of its people, had bought territory, as in the case of Louisiana; and at vast cost additional had erected mints, custom houses, and other public edifices for the benefit of the treacherous section, at last determined to betray it to ruin, and dishonor and bloodshed. And when the base conspiracy was ripe—ripe to rottenness—what more was seen but acts calculated to shame humanity itself; a benefactor prodigal in all time before of great gifts, plundered remorselessly; plundered with shouts of exultation, as these conspirators, these unparalleled villains, seized the gold placed in the keeping of their people, and exulted that to that extent, whilst enriching themselves, they had crippled the resources of their benefactor.

But why mention all this again, and now? why but to remind all concerned that if these men were dishonest and treacherous and utterly untrustworthy then, that four years of permitted and untrammelled license and villainy, of plundering and murders, have not changed nor improved them. Seated upon the necks of their dupes, their treachery is of a double character. They first betrayed the Government and the loyal section, they have since—and to a far worse degree—betrayed their own. Steeped in wicked mass, and at last rotted with blood, having squandered recklessly the plunder they started with, and that they afterwards wrenched from their own people, they begin to have some conception that the retribution for all this may be nigh: and reduced to desperation in pushing aside punishment, their resources failing, they await in savage defiance the blow, which, in the interests of humanity outraged in countless forms, should fall on their guilty heads.

Well, with the great armies of the Republic at last triumphant in every field, crowding the vile conspiracy into closer and closer quarters, what is next seen? Bearing in mind, that, besides the horrible consequences in the slaying and ruin of their own people, they have cost the nation,—the loyal and true man of it,—some two thousand millions of dollars and perhaps a quarter of million of lives to subdue them, why, the revolt that began in treachery and theft and single handed murder, has become magnificent in its horrible proportions and lineaments, in its stupendous wickedness; and, marvellous to consider, its engineers have become heroes, the very greatness of their crimes has inspired in some a sort of respect, and even regard. What if captured Union men have gasped out their lives in gaunt starvation, in squalid disease, in utter, abject, horrible suffering, have perished by inches beneath the very palace windows, where these wretches have for nearly four years revelled! what if all this has happened, we say! Why there are those amongst us, professedly loyal, men credited hitherto with keen discernment, who are yet willing to seek out the chief of these cut-throats, to beg of him an audience, to grasp in apparent friendship his blood stained hand!

Now we protest, we say, in the name of right, of patriotism, of humanity, of loyalty, of the great future of the republic, against these missions to Richmond, we care not for what purpose other than an exchange of prisoners. Our rulers may with propriety, consent to treat with Jeff. Davis and his gang that far, as has been done by society ever since the world stood, in ransoming its members from the clutches of brigands: but in the interests of "peace," of compounding with crime which reaches to the heavens, why, let us crush this villiany, not debate with it: not beg it to hearken to terms. To negotiate with these men at all, is in a sense to "recognize" them; is indeed to assent to their assumption of having formed a "government." And when our rulers—refusing to consent to the mission of Stephens in his gunboat, permit Jacques and Kirk, and Singleton and Blair, to wend their way to hunt up the rebel "government" at Richmond, why its theory is condemned by its practice, and the faith of loyal men is sadly shaken in its avowed stern purpose to put down the rebellion in the only way proper—by compelling submission to outraged law.

Again, we say—let the States in rebellion come in, whenever they have gotten enough of "State Rights;" but treat the accursed gang at Richmond as the grand imposters they are. To debate the case with them, to let them negotiate terms, to honor them so much, or to pave the way for their exemption from condign punishment, is a veritable premium on treason, is a reward for crime. We had hoped that the angry silence, the plain and ominous dislike of the first "Blair mission," would have saved the nation from the infliction upon its patience of a second. Desirous of believing it of a private character, the excuse given by some one that the purpose was to get back private papers, was eagerly accepted in the absence of the real facts. We hope such may be the object yet; but doubting it, and believing it of the most mischievous import and tendency we are sure we speak the sentiments of most loyal men, when we unhesitatingly condemn it. We want nothing at the close of this mighty struggle like the exercise of "cruel kindness." We want no Mexican programme, of gambling for the Presidency, repeated here. Treat with Jeff Davis, let him and his fellows in guilt escape, and unholy ambition will in all the future be prepared to walk in his bloody footprints in order to attain power. For an ultimatum in this case, we agree to the full with Gen. Sherman, who has shown himself as wise in civil matters where he has been called upon to deal with the rebellion, as he is great in the field. We quote from a letter of his lately addressed to a citizen of Georgia. He said, referring to the best method of making "peace with the Federal Government:

"Georgia is not out of the Union, and "therefore the talk of "reconstruction" "appears to me inappropriate. Some of "the people have been and still are in a "state of revolution, and as long as they "remain armed and organized, the United "States must pursue them with armies, "and deal with them according to military "law. But as soon as they break up their "armed organizations and return to their "homes, I take it they will be dealt with "by the civil courts. Some of the rebels "in Georgia, in my judgment deserve "death, because they have committed "murder and other crimes which are "punished with death by all civilized "governments on earth. * * *

"My opinion is that no negotiations are "necessary, nor commissioners, nor conventions, nor anything of the kind. "Whenever the people of Georgia quit rebelling against their government and elect members of Congress and Senators, "and these go and take their seats, then "the State of Georgia will have resumed "her functions in the Union."

Now who wants anything more to the point than that, more true to the spirit of justice, more comprehensive? Let the States come in by electing loyal men,—men whose past is a pledge for their future. And that done, let them resume their places, their positions in the Union. But no "negotiations," nothing whatever—as of late—which recognizes Jeff. Davis and his aids as competent to speak for the States. Let them get no benefit from atrocities which have appalled the civilization of the nineteenth century.

MISS AVONIA JONES IN THE TRAGEDY OF EAST LYNNE.—If there is any story, in the whole round of English productions which, dramatized—requires the most delicate conception of the cast to make it a success, it is certainly the drama of East Lynne. Whilst the plot is that of too many of the old English dramas, and so far unacceptable to those who desire to see the strongest passion known to the human heart pourtrayed without any alloy of guilt, yet the treatment of it in this instance—due as much to the accomplished dramatizer of it as to the wondrous authoress—is such as to convey a thrilling and impressive lesson, hardly ever to be forgotten, and the rendering of the principal character by one really capable of the part, makes the sad catastrophe rise to the dignity of a startling and powerful admonition, as we are made to contemplate the fearful agony attendant almost inevitably on the one fatal mistep which the world never forgives.

We had the satisfaction, last evening of witnessing the impersonation of Lady Isabel by Miss Avonia Jones, and must confess to an unwonted feeling of gratification at the real grace and power evinced by her, such as seems impossible to surpass. When we remember that the character of the emotions incident to its portrayal, are from first to last fraught with sadness scarcely relieved by a single burst of joyousness, we are reminded of the difficulty of making a character like this strongly attractive, to a popular audience: and viewing it in this light, there must be something that falls little short of genius on the part of the impersonator when such are so completely held in thrall, when the mournful and even sombre grace of the character is so fully conceived and represented as to take captive all listeners.

Perhaps we have been surprised in this instance into saying too much for this fine representative of the higher school of art in this line: but then we have the satisfaction of knowing that we are not alone in our conception of her powers. The National Intelligencer, speaking of her appearance in Washington, as Juliet, pays her a handsome tribute, from which we quote a few lines, as follows:

"Her conception of a character is generally accurate, and her grace, as a classical actress, is without a parallel on our stage. But it is not the grace of the plastic creations of the drama—it is of the order of imposing and striking and spirited statuary; it is the repose of Minerva, it is the fire of the Spanish maiden who 'hung on the willow her unstrung guitar, and walked with woman's step, where Mars might quake to tread.'"

A high compliment this, full surely; and yet we may well conceive it quite deserved, from the partial glimpse we have already had of her fine powers in the tragedy of East Lynne. We trust the enterprising manager of the Holliday will extend her opportunities of entertaining the people of Baltimore.

HEADACHE cured in a few minutes by the use of the celebrated Hasheesh Candy. All you have to do is to eat from five to eight, remain quiet a few minutes, and ten chances to one if you have any more headache that day. For Asthma, Cough, General Debility, Nervousness, Depression of Spirits, it is said to be truly wonderful; relief is almost immediate.

WM. H. READ, 167 Baltimore street, 1 door East of Calvert, is agent for Maryland. One dollar per box.

CURE YOUR COUGHS.—Everett' Juniper Tar is warranted to cure any case of cough, throat or lung disease, arising from colds, in an incredibly short time, no matter of what nature or of how long standing, with absolute certainty. We say this emphatically, and stake the price of the medicine in all cases on our assertion. In fresh cases of cough or croup instantaneous relief is produced. Try it, and if not convinced of the above declaration, return the empty bottles and get your money back. Sold by COLEMAN & ROGERS, 173 Baltimore street, and other druggists. 25 cents per bottle. 2d-tf

GRAPES IN NEW JERSEY.—We have been shown specimens of sacramental or pure Juice Wine, prepared by Mr. Alfred Speer, of Passaic, N. J., out of the Portuguese Sambuca, a valuable grape which he cultivates in this country. In taste it assimilates to port, without its heating qualities, being absolutely free from spirits further than its own fermentation affords. Preference is given it over all other wines in New York and other hospitals, as a tonic, gentle stimulant, diuretic and sudorific. Mr. Speer has been nine years experimenting in the production of this Wine, and the newest wine he sells is four years old.

MASON & HAMLIN'S CABINET ORGANS.—Having taken some pains to satisfy ourselves respecting the merits of these new instruments, we are able to speak very confidently in regard to them, and to recommend them heartily to our readers. We have not found any difference in the opinions entertained of them by musicians; all value them highly, and all agree that their super entry to all other instruments of the class. American or foreign, is indisputable.—New York Examiner.

THE BALTIMORE DAILY CLIPPER, A UNION PAPER,
PUBLISHED BY WILLIAM WALES,
AT 134 BALTIMORE STREET.

Intended to be a staunch supporter of the Union in its conflict with the rebels in arms, and to recognize no "peace" but that which is based upon the unconditional submission of those who have involved the land in bloodshed upon false pretexts, the Clipper, will be devoted to the cause of
GOOD GOVERNMENT AND OF SOCIAL ORDER;

The Daily Clipper is furnished at the counter at the low price—in these times—of TWO CENTS, and it is printed on good paper legibly and carefully, and besides being well provided with political matter, it will always be supplied with choice miscellany, on almost every subject, literary, scientific, agricultural and so on.

It is for all who desire to see such a paper made useful to this community especially, to give to it an ACTIVE SUPPORT.
He does not mean by this, that they should merely commend the endeavor, speak well of it. That is all right as far as it goes. But he must have substantial aid in the way especially of
ADVERTISING and SUBSCRIPTIONS
since the City and State is full of good Union men whose patronage now goes in other directions.

If sufficiently encouraged in the enterprize, the new proprietor proposes to himself to expend upon the paper whatever is needed to improve and render it one of the very LARGEST AND BEST IN THE COUNTRY;
and with the Union men of the State thus advised of his purposes, he will await their action.

Terms Six Cents Per Week, Payable to the Carriers.

RELIABLE HAIR RESTORATIVE
AND
NICE HAIR DRESSING.
Almost all the Restoratives, so called, are made by water, combined with articles which dry up the Hair and render some other preparation necessar, to dress it; but HANCE'S
CHEMICAL HAIR
RESTORATIVE
is a combination of Stimulating Spirits and Oil, affording an agreeable HAIR DRESSING
in addition to its Restorative properties.
IT IS UNEQUALLED FOR PRODUCING A LUXURIANT
HEAD OF HAIR,
GLOSSY CURLS,
and has the property of restoring
GRAY HAIR
TO ITS NATURAL COLOR.
It is not a Hair Dye, and so simple that it may be used by all with perfect safety.
Price $1 per bottle.
For sale by SETH S. HANCE,
196 Baltimore street.
