U. S. SENATE—EXTRA SESSION.

WASHINGTON, March 9, 1865.

Mr. Sprague rose to a question personal to himself. He had been serving as a member of the Committee on Military Affairs, but the caucus which recently remodelled the Committees had transferred him from that to the Committee on Public Lands, without any previous knowledge on his part. His State, Rhode Island, had little or no interest in public lands. She was among the first to offer troops to put down the rebellion, and having served with them, and having much interest in legislation pertaining to the military service, he had with much pleasure served on the Military Committee. He asked to be excused from serving on the Committee on Public Lands.

Mr. Johnson said this involved an unpleasant duty on the part of the Senate, and he appealed to the Senator to withdraw his request.

The Senate refused to excuse Senator Sprague from service on the Committee on Public Lands.

On motion of Mr. Sherman, the Senate ordered the printing of five thousand copies of the amended internal revenue act to be properly indexed.

Mr. Trumbull, from the Judiciary Committee, made a report on the credentials of Mr. Snow, Senator elect from Arkansas. The committee say that in 1861, the constituted authorities of the State of Arkansas, so far as they could succeed, took the State beyond the authority of the United States, and that in pursuance of a law of Congress the President, by proclamation, decided the inhabitants of that State to be included in the insurrection. Therefore, the committee recommend that the question of admission be postponed until next session, and until Congress shall take action in regard to the existing State government of Arkansas.

The report was adopted.

Mr. Doolittle presented the credentials of John C. Underwood, a Senator elect from the State of Virginia, for six years, from the 4th of March.

Mr. Trumbull said the Committee on the Judiciary had just made a report in the case of A. Kansas, which was in a similar condition to Virginia, and it was therefore likely that the committee would come to a similar conclusion.

Mr. Anderson did not endorse the Senator's views. He did not believe the President's proclamation precluded the Senate from taking action on the subject of admitting Senators.

The subject was temporarily laid aside in order to execute the special order, namely, the election of a chaplain for the 39th Congress.

Mr. Lane, of Indiana, nominated the Rev. Dr. Rawman, the present incumbent, (Methodist,) and Mr. Harris nominated the Rev. Dr. Gray, a Baptist clergyman of Washington.

Thirty-nine votes were cast, of which twenty-seven were necessary to a choice.

The Rev Dr. Gray having received twenty-seven, he was declared elected Chaplain.

The consideration of Judge Underwood's credentials was resumed.

Mr. Doolittle said the State of Virginia had been recognized by the Executive and by Congress The Senate, when West Virginia was set apart as a separate State government, admitted Senators here from the remaining part of Virginia.

The consideration of the subject was postponed until next session.

On motion the credentials of Joseph Segar, of Virginia, and Michael Hahn, of Louisiana, were withdrawn from the files to be presented, and laid over till next session.

Mr. Merrill, from the Committee on Contingent Expenses, reported against the resolution referred to them to allow pay and mileage to the Senatorial claimants from Arkansas and Louisiana, on the ground of a want of jurisdiction; and therefore they asked to be discharged from the further consideration of the subject.

The resolution lies over.

Mr. Nye offered a resolution, which was adopted, that the Secretary of the Navy be requested to organize a board of no less than three competent persons, whose duty it shall be to inquire into and determine how much the vessels of war and steam machinery contracted for by the Department in the years 1862 and 1863 exceed the contractors over and above the contract price and allowance for the work, and report the same to the Secretary at the next session, some but those who have given satisfaction to the Department to be considered

The Senate went into executive session, and after some time spent therein adjourned.

LEGISLATURE OF MARYLAND.

ANNAPOLIS, March 8th, 1865

HOUSE OF DELEGATES.—[Evening Session.]—The bill to repeal the law requiring the re-inspection of salted fish in Baltimore city was read a second time without amendment. Also, the bill to incorporate the Corn and Flour Exchange of Baltimore city. Also, the bill to authorize the trustees of the Institution for the Instruction of the Blind to erect suitable buildings, and to amend section 5 of article 33 of the Code, entitled indigent blind. Also, the bill relating to appeals in cases of insolvency.

Bills Passed.—Relating to the sale of real estate by executors. To amend the license law so as to require keepers of ordinaries to have tavern accommodations. To amend the act of 1864, chap. 247, relating to crimes and punishments.

The Senatorial Question.—Mr. Slothower, from the select committee of investigation of certain reports of bribery, &c., made a report thereon. The committee say:—"They examined every witness they could possibly have brought before them, within the time limited for their labors, and every one within their reach whom they could even hear of having heard a rumor on the subject. Many of the witnesses so examined were members of the House, their own compeers and associates in the daily transactions of the business of this body, upon whose sworn evidence your committee have the utmost confidence; others were officers of this House and Senate, and gentlemen not connected with this General Assembly in any way, but were merely the personal and warm friends of the several parties, who, in general estimation, are esteemed as candidates or aspirants for the position of United States Senator.

"From all the testimony thus taken, your committee, with great satisfaction, are enabled unanimously to report that there is no foundation whatever for any charge, or the rumor of a charge, that any member of this General Assembly has received or been offered a bribe in connection with the election of United States Senator, and they unhesitatingly pronounce all such charges and rumors false. Not only has no such bribe been so offered or received by any member of this General Assembly, but, as far as your committee can ascertain, no influence has been exerted in behalf of any of the candidates, beyond that which is usual in behalf of rival aspirants for every liberal position within the gift of the Legislature. Warm friends and zealous advocates for each favorite have been discovered, but no influence appears to have been used by any of them, except that of personal appeals, to individual members, and the earnest and warm discussion of past records, and supposed future course in politics of the favorite or opposing candidate

"In our committee also report that they have been unable to discover proof that any place, or portion, or contract, or the promise of any such position, or contract, under the General Government, has been promised or offered to any member of this General Assembly, or to their relatives or friends, in consideration of influence in the support of any candidate for the Senatorship.

"Your committee, therefore, from the evidence thus produced before them, pronounce such charges and rumors entirely without foundation."

The House adjourned

ANNAPOLIS, March 9.

HOUSE OF DELEGATES.—Petitions Presented.—By Mr. Slothower, from citizens of Fowblas, Baltimore county, for a law to prohibit the sale of liquors within one mile of said place. By Mr. Tull, from citizens of Tangier district, Somerset county, against the repeal of a liquor law. By Mr. Tolson, from citizens of Queen Anne's county, for a repeal of the grain law in the city of Baltimore.

Mileage of Members.—A Gold Per Diem.—The Senate resolution that $100, in addition to their usual mileage be paid to each member of the General Assembly, was read. The rules were suspended to give the resolution a second reading. Mr. Hoffman moved to strike out the words "one hundred dollars," which was rejected Mr. Lasby moved to strike out $100 and insert $200, which was rejected. Mr. Ritchie was called for the reading of the petition presented by him from citizens of Frederick county, protesting against the allowance of $100 extra mileage, which was done. Mr. Valliant, Mr. Bahrman and Mr. Minehart opposed the adoption of the resolution.

Mr. Willis stated that the per diem of members was wholly inadequate to pay their necessary expenses in Annapolis. He believed that the existing law upon the subject authorized the payment of mileage, and he therefore favored the adoption of the joint resolution.

Mr. Miller, of Anne Arundel, argued that the constitutional provision limited the per diem only, and did not refer to mileage.

Mr. Tarr offered to amend the resolution by substituting a provision directing that the members be paid their per diem in gold.

The previous question was called and sustained, and the resolution substituted by Mr. Tarr providing that the per diem of members be paid in gold was adopted by yeas 38, nays 42. Yeas and nays as ordered was then adopted by years 43, nays 33.

Election of Senator.—The House proceeded to the election of a United States Senator to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Senator Hicks, for the balance of the term for which Senator Pearce was elected, which expires March 3d, 1867. Mr. Pilkington offered a message to the Senate, announcing their proposal to go into an election of United States Senator, and nominating the Hon. J. A. J. Cresswell, which was adopted.

The balloting took place with the following result;

Whole number of votes cast.....93
For J. A. J Cresswell.....53
For Dr. Cathel Humphreys.....2
For J. H. Pilkington.....1
For A. J. Willis.....1
Blanks.....35

The Speaker thereupon declared that the Hon. J. A. J. Cresswell was duly elected Senator for the unexpired term.

The Senate resolution requesting the Governor to issue a commission to Hon. J. A. J. Cresswell, as United States Senator, was concurred in.

The bill relating to the leasing of Hacanse for dredging for oysters was made the order of the day for Monday next.

The House took a recess until 7½ P. M

AMUSEMENTS.

The Concert To-Morrow Night.—The second concert of Mdlle. De Katow and Mr. Wehli will be given to-morrow night, at the New Assembly Rooms. The tone of Mdlle. De Katow is very tender and sympathetic, her intonation is pure and true, and her expression, though not portraiture, is warm and touching. Miss Laura Harris exhibits a rich treasure of musical talent, and her ambition to reach the goal of success will be rewarded in a short time. Regarding the abilities of Mr. Wehli we have, on a former occasion, said all that we can relative to his wonderful talents. The above will be most positively the last of the season by the De Katow combination.

Benefit of Mr. Forrest.—The great theatrical event of the age will be observed at the Holliday street Theatre to-night. It will witness the last appearance upon the stage of Mr. Forrest, and the great tragedian has selected as his farewell appearance in public, the part of Richard the Third. As there will be great interest manifested to witness Mr. F. for the last time, we advise those persons who contemplate a visit to the theatre to-night to secure their seats.

Connie Soogah.—This great Irish drama [illegible] to-night for the benefit of Mrs Williams. The play continues to attract large audiences, and we observe with pleasure that Mr. Wilkins, the scenic artist, rightly receives an attestation for the admirable manner in which he has produced the scenery of the play. To-morrow afternoon a family matinee.

Haydn Musical Association.—This association will give a concert to-night at the Maryland Institute. The talent engaged will be under the direction of Wm. F. Shields, the most accomplished professor of music in the city, and acknowledged to be the most skilful virtuosi of the age.

ANECDOTE OF GENERAL SHERMAN.—In a letter received the other day from an officer in Sherman's army, he relates the following story of the old hero, as an incident characteristic of the great general:

"A party of foragers came to a rebel plantation, the owner of which was absent in the rebel army. General Sherman was near the house. The boys were running the chickens and hogs with the view of having a good supper at the rebel's expense. The old lady came running out to Sherman and exclaimed, very excitedly: 'General, your men are taking all my chickens!' 'Oh, yes,' coolly replied the general, 'they will have to roost very high,' and unconcernedly rode off. It is said the joke is relished in the army about as much as their supper was the night it occurred."

That reminds us of another little story. Whilst our boys were fighting the rebels in Tennessee, it is said a rebel woman came to the headquarters of one of our generals with the same complaint—that the soldiers were stealing and killing all of her chickens, and wanted to know if she could not have some redress. After some moments' consideration the general replied: "I don't know, madam, this rebellion must be put down if it costs every chicken in Tennessee." Mrs. Rebel left with a flea in her ear, fully purnuaded that Don Carlos Buell was no longer in command in that region. She could no longer have a strong guard placed over her hen-coops.

A correspondent on his way to Wilmington, writes: "An incident, illustrating the peculiarity of our struggle, occurred on my march. Passing a house by the roadside, a corporal of one of the regiments asked permission to enter it, alleging as the reason for his request that it was the residence of his parents and the home of his youth. His request was granted. He entered the house, and was soon clasped in the arms of his overjoyed mother. 'John,' said she, 'your brother was here yesterday; he stopped as the Confederates marched past here.' That mother has a son in each army."

The last squad of deserters that came into Gen. Meade's lines, were fired on furiously by the rebel pickets, but none of them were hit. After they reached a place of safety some of our men inquired how it was that they all escaped. "Oh," said the spokesman of the party, "them fellers fired too high to hit us!" "Yes, yes," returned the pickets officer, "but why did they fire so high?" "Oh, don't you know," answered the rebel; "well, it's because they are coming over here themselves to-morrow night."

BENEVOLENCE.—"I see in this world two heavy, human happiness and misery. If I can take but the smallest bit from one heap and add to the other, I carry a prize. If a child has dropped a bit penny, and by giving it another I can wipe away its tears, I feel I have done something. I should be glad to do greater things, but I will not neglect this."—John Newton.

The impress of Nimes, the great emporium for rebel blockade runners, were $1,317,970 in 1861, and $11,476 580 in 1864—Real estate advanced 400 per cent. during the same time.

THE SOUTHERN CHURCH.

In one of William Gilmore Simms' poetical works occur the following rather striking stanzas expressive of the present state of the Church in some of the rebel towns:

The Church, like some deserted bride,
In trembling at the altar waits,
While rag ag fierce on every side
The fires is thundering at her gates.
No ivy grows, nor silt'ring fair, cover,
No crimson berries deck her walls;
But blood, red dripping from her eaves,
Along the sacred pavement falls.

Her silver bells no longer chime
In summons to our sacred home;
Nor gentle voices join in prime,
To reclaims the God within the dome.
Nor do the fireside's happy bands
Assemble round, with greetings dear,
While Patriarch Christmas spreads his hands,
To glad with gifts and crown with cheer.

John Adams being called upon for a contribution for foreign missions, remarked, "I have nothing to give for the cause, but there is one thing I can promise, and that will preach in the other world." "You will give as much and more than any one else, to civilize these clergymen."
