SHERIDAN'S VICTORY.—THE UNION TROOPS ADVANCING AGAINST LYNCHBURG.
[Correspondence N. Y. Herald.]
Lynchburg, Va., March 8, 1865.
The news of the defeat of Gen. Early and his rebel troops in the upper valley received full confirmation to-day by the arrival of a detachment of his force, consisting of the First Rhode Island, Fourth Virginia, and the 25th North Carolina, under the command of Col. Thompson, of the first named regiment, occupying the position captured by the Union troops. The history of the expedition, from the 27th ult. to Friday, the 23d inst., may be briefly reviewed. On the evening of the 27th inst., the First Division of Gen. Meritt's Cavalry, Third Division of Cavalry, Gen. Custar, and one brigade of the second Virginia, commanding, with two sections of artillery, commencing at the 27th inst., and four pieces of artillery, the whole under the command of Major General Sherman, on the morning of the 27th ult. As the troops rode through town the column was well concealed, and in the evening of the 28th inst. they were seen by the rebels on the morning of the 27th ult. SHERMAN'S CAMPAIGN.

Fayetteville in our Possession. Sherman's Advance within 40 Miles of Raleigh.

SOUTH CAROLINIANS WELCOME SHERMAN.

&c. &c. &c.

NEW YORK, March 10.—By the steamer Dudley Duck, which left Newborn on Monday afternoon, we learn that up to Saturday night, 4th inst., war was being waged in the Upper Valley, which had made the road bad, but the weather cleared on Saturday evening, and when the Duck left there was every promise of good weather, and the road being sandy the road would be hard in a few days. The enemy had fled a great number of miles from the road, and were being driven back by the force advancing from Newborn, which was within a short distance of Kingstown. When the steamer left Newborn refugees had arrived there all stating that Fayetteville was in our possession last week, and that Sherman was now within fifty miles of Raleigh. Rebel soldiers are deserting in companies, and in some cases by entire regiments. Most of the regiments to their homes, and the people say that little heed is given to the proclamation of Governor Vance, calling them to arms. On the contrary, in most places in North Carolina the people have gone forth to meet Sherman with words of welcome, and they have not been particular about placing their stock and supplies out of the reach of our army. Many of the inhabitants of western North Carolina are on their way to meet their relatives and friends in Sherman's army from the Western States, with wagon loads of provisions, native wares, and such other comforts as Sherman's Union soldiers will relish. From the tone of the Raleigh papers, with the exception of the Confederate, it seems as though no one could have the hardihood now to entertain a hope for the success of the Confederacy. The Progress says that Sherman will soon be in possession of Raleigh and will go where he desires. Quite a panic prevails among the negroes in North Carolina since the announcement that they were to be recruited to fight in the rebel army. The rebels are now gathering them up for this purpose, but a strong combination exists among conservative slaveholders to resist this measure, some of whom are arming their slaves in order that they may be able to defy the rebel authorities, and thus retain their allegiance to the Union. Great numbers of negroes are flocking to Sherman's army, says the Progress, with the permission of their masters, promising that they will return to work for wages as soon as it will be safe for them to do so.

On articles of luxury a tax of 25 per cent, and on currencies 5 per cent. The interest on Government bonds is taxed as income under the existing laws.

FROM SAVANNAH.

Spirit of Savannah Women—Good Faith of the City.
[Correspondence N. Y. Tribune.]
After spending some days in this city I have arrived at the conclusion that the people of Savannah have shown, if not more devotion to the Union, certainly more common sense than the people of any other city in the South. The ladies of respectable families with whom I have conversed, and to whom I have inquired their attachment to the Confederacy, they persistently maintain what they call the "right of secession," although not a few express as candidly a doubt as to the policy of attempting to secede. They say they have yielded to the force of superior numbers, and being a military necessity, they gracefully submit to the fortunes of war. The best educated portion of the ladies of Savannah received their finishing education in the North, and they do not acknowledge any stronger attachment to the old Union, they evidently have a better appreciation of Southern society, and more respect for the power and resources of the North, than those whose education is wholly Southern. The ladies in this respect resemble the Anglo-Saxon race everywhere. They have a high estimate of their own character and abilities, both of judgment and of intellect. They are not more now, to have hope for the Confederate cause; they profess that it is the cause of justice, but they do not see how it can be maintained. They are all of the view; that the present chastisement and suffering is no evidence against the "right of secession." But who ever saw an Anglo-Saxon woman acknowledge herself in the wrong in this respect? They are not more, to have hope for the Confederate cause; they profess that it is the cause of justice, but they do not see how it can be maintained. They are all of the view; that the present chastisement and suffering is no evidence against the "right of secession." BRITISH TORPEDOES.

The British Army and Navy Gazette... Early potatoes...

EARLY POTATOES.

Every family—in the country at least—should have them plentifully by the first of August, and by taking some pains will begin to see them by the first of July. The first thing to be considered is the soil. It should be a comparatively dry and sandy soil, rather than a wet, back land, or a heavy soil. It is generally preferred, one covered with grass, or what is still better, a brush oak, sweet fern, blackberry and huckleberry bushes. Such a soil, when well ploughed and harrowed, will be light, and will abound with the alkalies and salts which are the most important constituents of the potato. It should be an open but a warm one—along the side of an old fence or wall, where basins have been growing for a century, or less, and exposed to the morning sun. On such a soil and in such a situation the plants will start early and grow to maturity rapidly, and the variety planted be a good one, the tubers grown will have a sweet and agreeable flavor. Some of the varieties well adapted to this soil are the Golden Wonder, White Queen, White Crown, White Gem, White Star, White Wonder, and White Gem.

CAPTURE OF A LARGE QUANTITY OF TORPEDOES—THE REBELS OBLIVIOUS TO THE LOSS OF THE TORPEDOES.

From the Washington Star.]
The British Army and Navy Gazette... Early potatoes... The capture of a large quantity of torpedoes is a very important discovery. The rebels are apparently ignorant of their loss, and this gives us an opportunity to use them against them. The torpedoes were captured in a large quantity, and are now being transported to the front. The rebels are oblivious to the loss, and this gives us an opportunity to use them against them.
