TO THE BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

NEWS FROM THE SOUTH.

THE BATTLE OF SATURDAY.

The Rebels Admit their Defeat.

FROM THE ARMY OF THE POTOMAC.

ACCOUNT OF THE LATE BATTLE.

Eight Battle Flags Captured.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—The Richmond Enquirer of Monday, 27th instant, contains the following special despatch in reference to the battle on Saturday:

PETERSBURG, March 29th.—General Bushrod Johnson and Gordon started the enemy's breastworks on our left this morning and drove the enemy one mile, capturing the works and 200 prisoners, including Gen. McLaughlin and other officers.

The fight was terrific and the loss on our side heavy.

Brigadier-General Terry was badly wounded. During the engagement the enemy massed his artillery so heavily in the neighborhood of the captured Fort, and was thus enabled to pour such a terrific enfilading fire upon our ranks as to cause our troops to fall back to their original position. Major-General Warren, (Yankee) is supposed to be killed.

Military matters beyond the Mississippi river are entirely at a stand still. Our forces hold the lower portion of Arkansas along the Washita river, and command the greater portion of the line of the Red river.

FURTHER PARTICULARS OF THE LATEST BATTLE.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Information from City Point, dated yesterday, says that the losses in the 9th Corps are larger than heretofore reported. The First Division here in hospital 100 wounded and 20 are known to have been killed.

In the Third Division Hospital, there are 160 wounded, and about 30 were killed.

The Second Division were not engaged but in their hospital they have 130 wounded rebels.

Picket firing was kept up all night, yesterday and the day before. The killed on both sides were exchanged, the enemy showing more courtesy than heretofore.

The following are the essential points of a general order issued to the army yesterday:

The enemy with a tenacity for which he has paid dearly, massed his forces and succeeded, through the reprehensible want of vigilance of the 3rd brigade of the 1st division of the 9th Corps, in breaking through our lines, capturing Fort Steadman and batteries 9, 10 and 11.

The prompt measures taken by Major-General Parke, the firm bearing of the troops of the 9th Corps in the adjacent portions of the line held by the enemy, and the conspicuous gallantry of the 31st Division of this Corps, for the first time under fire, together with the courage and skill displayed by Brigadier-General Hartshorn, its leader, which repaired this disaster, and the enemy were driven from Fort Steadman and our lines, leaving in our hands eight battle flags, and over sixteen hundred prisoners.

The enemy being driven from the front of our lines, the advance was made by the 24th and 25th Corps, and the enemy by night was driven from his entrenched picket line and his efforts to recover the same, which were particularly delivered and persisted in by the 24th Corps first, were resisted and repulsed with heavy losses, leaving with the sixth Corps over four hundred prisoners, and with the 2nd Corps two battle flags and over three hundred prisoners.

The troops of the 6th Corps reported by Major Gen. Wright as engaged in these operations, were Getty's Division, Keifer's Brigade, Seymour's Division and Hamilton's and Edwards' Brigades of Wheaton's Division of the 21st Corps.

Major General Humphreys mentions Miles' and Hoyt's Divisions and Smythe's Brigade, of the 11th Division, supported by Getty's Division of the 15th Corps.

The result of the day was the thorough defeat of the enemy's plans, the capture of his strongly entrenched picket line under the artillery fire of his many works, and the capture of ten battle flags and about 2,000 prisoners, a result on which the Major General commanding heartily congratulates the army.

The order further says: "Two lessons can be learned from these operations, one that no fortified line, however strong, will protect an enemy unless vigilantly guarded. The other, that no disaster or misfortune is irreparable where energy and bravery are displayed in the determination to reason what is lost, and to promptly assume the offensive."

Another of the defenders of the Confederacy has just come. He is eighteen years of age, but looks several years younger, being a dwarf about three and a half feet high, and slender.

His father is reported to be wealthy. He says he enlisted in order to get sent to the front so that he could escape and thus get something to eat.

THE ATTEMPT TO CORRUPT THE LEGISLATURE.

HARRISBURG, March 29.—Speaker Olmstead, of the House of Representatives, yesterday appointed Messrs. Elias Billingsport, of Lancaster, M. S. Quay, of Beaver, and George A. Quigley, of Philadelphia, the Committee to inquire into the alleged attempt to corrupt the House of Representatives in reference to the passage of the bill to authorize connecting railroads to consolidate their lines, &c. The Committee will sit during the recess, and report the result of their investigation to the next Legislature.

Latest from North Carolina.

PORT MONROE, March 27.—The steamer Perit and Trade Wind arrived here this morning from Wilmington, N. C., with 200 refugees from Columbia, S. C.

The news from our forces in North Carolina is exceedingly encouraging, but for the present everything pertaining to the movements has been judged strictly confidential. Suffice it to say that our troops strongly occupy their position at Goldsboro, and are confident of success.

No active movements of importance had taken place since the occupation of Goldsboro.

THE HOPELESSNESS OF THE REBELLION ADMITTED.

MORNING CITY, N. C., March 26.—A member of the North Carolina Legislature from Pasquotank county, Mr. Grandy, has reached his home from Raleigh for the purpose of taking the oath of allegiance.

He says that Johnston's forces all told will not number more than half of Sherman's army, and that the combined armies of Lee and Johnston will not outnumber the joint numbers of Sherman and Schofield. He also states that the members of the present Legislature openly admit that there is no possible hope for the confederacy—and that they have met under rebel auspices for the last time.

Most of Johnston's army, he states, will be at Raleigh, six miles north-west of Raleigh, at that place, though it does not cover Raleigh, is a position of great natural strength.

People from all sections of North Carolina are bringing a pressure to bear upon the State authorities in favor of immediate submission as a return to the Union.

Which a majority of the Legislature will assent to. If Governor Vance can be brought over, who few manifest a disposition to yield, Johnston will be surrounded by him to Sherman with this understanding. Mr. Grandy says that the Legislature and people are reconciled to the abandonment of slavery, and the first act of the Legislature will be to ratify the constitutional amendment, abolishing slavery. The proposition of Lee and Davis to arm the slaves, and thereby demoralizing and making them a dangerous element, has made slavery odious to those former supporters, who now generally concede that the slaves may be made free in order to be made soldiers.

It now appears that the rebel President is endeavoring to obtain peace through the State authorities of North Carolina. A general pardon and restoration of property by the Government is the object which Davis requires for the abandonment of slavery. On these conditions, according to the same authority, Lee professes to be ready to submit to the North in a foreign war on our own flag.

The Raleigh Standard intimates that terms will be offered which both parties can accept with honor, which will bring them all again under one flag in a foreign war of conquest, avenging joint injuries which both sections have received from Johnston, and he took the precaution to rest his flanks on two streams. He made seven charges en masse, in his desperate endeavors to force our lines, but they all failed. His loss was severe in each charge.

GENERAL GRANT'S PLANS.

A Washington correspondent of the World Spectator writes as follows:

"The grand plans of the lieutenant-general commanding the army are now clearly developed. He has exhibited a most brilliant and successful strategy in his well-planned combination. He has out-maneuvered Lee in his final strategic combination and has compelled him to cancel the attack of defending capital while his military supports were falling one by one around him. He has hemmed his adversary up in the State of North Carolina, and he has forced him to fight or surrender. He has caused Sherman to sweep from Atlanta to Savannah and thence through North Carolina into a desperate retreat. He has succeeded in a manner as to penetrate the vital parts of the rebellion.

Provided a degree he has provided Sherman with a base by the timely capture of Wilmington, and enabled him to form a junction with the rebel army, which was in the highest degree encouraging to the gallant men composing his army—of which the rebel army was composed of three regiments of the 1st North Carolina, and a raid upon another raid to the James River, which is already far in advance of Sherman's line of skirmishers.

Johnston, who is already far in advance of Sherman's line of skirmishers, is now in a position, where either or both can be attacked with a very great probability of success. Johnston is in a position as to be in a very short time in communication with the extreme right wing of Sherman's army. The South the rebel army, which is on the West, and now awaits him with open arms, and he is now in a position to strike the rebel army, and ere this reaches you the crash of the javelin battle may be resounding on the plains of Southeastern Virginia.
