ARE THE GREAT CRIMINALS TO ESCAPE JUSTICE?

With the capture of Lee and his army and the prospective capture of Jeff Davis, Benjamin, Breckinridge & Co., already a cry goes up from certain quarters in favor of sparing these men, prominent for the part they have taken in cruelty and bloodshed. We hope the President and the tribunals of the country will by no means heed such appeals. It would be a crying sin, a burning shame for the Government to be punishing minor traitors and murderers like Bell and Kennedy, the mere tools of Davis and Benjamin, and then let these latter escape. The cruelties of the rebel prisons—atrocities which have appalled humanity and civilization, demand a fitting retribution; and could these great criminals be suffered to go scot-free, it would be a premium on treason to the end of time. We believe that however it may be with a few tender footed philanthropists, the voice of the nation at large will demand that fitting example be made of the chief traitors.

CAN THE WAR BE PROLONGED?

With the power of the rebellion thoroughly broken by the capture of Richmond and the destruction of Lee's army, the last great rebel organization in any wise a menace to the Government is disposed of, because what are left can be for the present merely an annoyance;—and now the question is asked again and again—"How long will the war last?" The chief fear seems to be that with the rebel armies broken up, the fragments will resolve themselves into guerrilla bands, ferocious, unscrupulous and capable of prolonging the conflict,—if even on a small scale,—for an indefinite period. We think there need be little fear of such a result.

The fact that Governor Brown, of Georgia, has been found long since denouncing guerrillas as one of the worst inflictions of misery and pain prompt relief and an appeal to the public. And the rebels, who may desire, Strangers visiting the city will find a desirable stock at their disposal. He earnestly solicits a share of the public revenue, being convinced that he can do less for any other house in the city of a shoe, cheaper than at any other place.

You need to be told at this late day, that it would have no influence whatever in changing the general result."

This we say, in view of all this, the people generally may make themselves easy, as to the chances of a speedy, and a complete peace. Of course, there will be some who will hold out; but then with a halter certain to await them unless they submit to the Government, individuals will soon come to see how a pursuit fraught with peril to themselves, and one in which no honor whatever can be gained.
