Horsco Soper, Esq., Embellished with engravings, illustrative of school architecture and other belongings, and beautifully printed, it is a model in its way; and what is more to the purpose, it goes into details which should commend this report to the dustice of every other county in the State. Were other officers to be equally pains taking in regard to these matters, the labors of the State Superintendents would be greatly lightened.

"THE MARYLAND FARMER AND MEmaxic."—We are indebted to Messrs. i. 8. Mills & Co., of this city, for the April number of their magazine, and find more than usually interesting in the large amount of information contained on agricultural matters. With the advent of spring and gardening, every one almost desires to brush up their knowledge of gardening, especially, and we commend this magazine therefore carnestly to all who wish to post themselves with the best knowledge extant on such subjects.
