time has come when every citizen inter- | wealth and prosperity unexampled as yet. ested in its prosperity should do all that is possible to forward it, should take measures to repair the damages which have been caused by the conflict, as well as take advantage of the good it has wrought. We have changed our system of labor, a change for the better; and we have lost a portion of it; but the land and the mines, and the forests and the fisheries remain to us; the public works are still intact; and unlike many other States less fortunate, we have, with the conflict raging around ns and semetimes on our own soil, saved our dwellings, our mills and manufactories, so that nothing is to hinder us from at once starting anew, and, on a level with the more fortunate, in the race for commercial and agricultural precedence.

In view of certain needs, however, consequent upon the partial revolution that has been wrought, the Legislature which has recently adjourned deemed it wise to make seme provision for supplying information calculated to inform other communities of the new opportunities afforded here for advantageous investments of capital and labor; and to that end, that body appointed a committee to furnish a brief report of the principal and most obvious resources of the State, such Report to be finally printed and distributed, under the supervision of the Chief Clerk of the Sento collect and distribute in the interval to the next session, such exact information as to farming lands in the market as might "to country." induce immigration to the State, supplying thus the deficiencies existing, in the THE PROPOSED MONUMENT TO shortest possible period.
