Reduction in the Price of Fuel -- It is gra ligibe to notice a considerable decline in the ratail prices of fuel, which, compared wit the rates which provalled a month since, have fallen off at least 33 per cent. For instance coal which formerly commanded $14e15 p. ton can now be purchased at $9:10, and an excellent auxility of pine wood has been sel ing per single cord at $5.50. Now that the overnment has ceased to monopoli market, as the florceness of civil war compelled it to do, prices of fuel are coming down to the old legitimate standard.
