THE POLICY WHICH LOOKS TO-WARD A RESTORED NATIONALTY. _SOUTHERN RAILROADS.

By the letter of the Post Master Gen-1 eral, given in our issue of a day or two since, the policy of the Government is MARYLAND INSTITUTE-Carecross & Dixey' indicated which looks to retaining the railroads of the South in the hands of the military authorities, as heretofore, for the present, in order to restore as soon as possible those postal advantages broken up by the rebellion, and so eminently needful | tady used anything of the kind was a fact careplated by the Government, in bringing of the preparation called Email de Paris that we Marble Hall. back to their old relationships States and find such testimony on afcord. Ladies visting the sea ment and disorganizing influences of the shore or country should use L'Email, for removand lying at the base of everything that all Druggists, Perfumers, Hair-Dressers and appertains to restoration, postal, commercial, agricultural, and social, it should indeed be the policy of our rulers to do ali that is practicable to extend somewhat the protection to them, already justified the fact that for military purposes the Government had the right to put and to keep them in running order.

One of the early discoveries of the most remarkable war ever known, was that these vast modern systems for the transportation of treeps and munitions of war,) must be taken systematically in hand by the Government, to be extended where ! needful, and repaired whenever in the changing fortunes of the war this was found essential in communicating with of this city. commanding positions. And so it was, that not waiting for "red tape," not waiting for specific legislation on the subject, a Military Radroad Bureau was estab lished as an adjunct to the War Office, timore. which, finally committed to the charge of General McCallum, one of the ablest administrative officers in this line known, has been as it were the right arm of the Government in opening communications with distant points, in forwarding troops and munitions of war, and feeding the vast armies concentrated in some instances hundreds of miles from what might be termed their real "base." In the line of these operations, something akin to miracles have at times been wrought out by the Railroad Corps, in the sudden construction of huge bridges, and in the rapid restoration of destroyed lines. On one occasion whilst the military railroads of Virginia were in charge of A. Anderson. Esq., now second in authority to General McCallum, eleven miles of railroad were rebuilt in the short space of seven days: an exploit certainly without a parallel in the history of the system. And then all are familiar with the wonders achieved in the same line under the able management of the Baltimore railroad, where for nearly the whole period of the war, it was a commen occurrence to hear of bridges de stroyed, to be replaced so quickly that the announcement of their restoration would in many instances come with o right on the heels of the message which approunced their destruction.

Well, the Government knowing the value of these great public lines in reas to subserve ecchemy, purchasers will consult storing and establishing its authority, has we say, wisely resolved to keep them; nuder its protection a little longer,-we mean those it has so long had occasion to control. And if there was no other evi- delictons sensations as are experienced while ules on each occasion, and you will be amazed at throughout their lives, have been so endence than this that far-reaching views of inhaling the exquisite fragrance of Phalon's theresult. A KN. LEK'S SURRENDER. BY THE BARD OF MARRIE MALL. Night had hung her sable mentle, Festooned o'er the frowning hosts. While the distant landscape's summit Showed the bettle's wantering ghosts; Sleep had cought the bleck encampments

Weighing weary eyelids down, And the silent picket listened To a soft approaching sound. Johnny Reb, I come to meet you.-We were brothers-once sealo I have come unarmed to meet you Let me not be heard in vain:

Though your rags attest devetton To your failing, dying cause, Let us cesse this force commetion And resume our ancient laws. Let us drep the warlike trappings And renew our civil dress. Hoppy in the common country You and I were taught to bless The picket leaning on his musket Pondered o'er what he had heard

Then among his comrades hastened

Shouting, "feace," a magic word

Soon it reached the Southern chieftain And recalled the days of yore. When he lived is perce and plenty: Contrast now he must deplere: Then he saw his ragged a my Which he loved of earth most dear And he saw each brigade dwindle Till he shed a bitter teer. They were now in droves describe. At the tidy Northern's call. For they heard them tell the story
