CLOTHING. BY THE BARD OF MARRIES HALL. Might had hung her sable mentle. Festcened e'er the frowning hosts, While the distant landscape's summit

Showed the bettle's wantering ghosts; Sleep had sought the bleak encampments. Weighing weary eyelids down, And the stient picket listened To a soft approaching sound. Johnny Reb, I come to meet you— We were brothers -once again I have come unarmed to meet you Let me not be heard if vain; Though your rage attest devotion To your failing, dying cause, Let us cease this flerce commetion And resume our ancient laws. Let us drop the warlike trappings And renew our civil dress, Happy in the common country You and I were taught to bless; The picket leaning on his musket Pondered o'er what he had heard Then among his comrades hastened Shouting, "Feace," a magic word. Soon it reached the Southern chieftain And recalled the days of yore, When he lived in peace and pleaty;

Contrast now he must deplore: Then he saw his regred a my Which he loved of earth most dear, And he saw each brigade dwindle Till he shed a bitter tear, They were now in droves describe. At the tily Northern's call, For they heard them tell the story Of the suits at Marble Hall Then the chieftain bereft of glory. Said, "I will surrouder all, And permit myself and soldiers To buy clothes at Marble Hall." SMITH BROS. & CO., Clothiers, Merchant
