HENRY OTTO, BY THE BARD OF WARPLE HALL. Might had hang her sable mantle. Festponed o'er the frowning hosts. While the distant landscape's summit Showed the battle's wandering phoets; Bleep had sought the bleak encampements Weighing weary eyelide down. And the silent ricket listened To a soft approaching sound. Johany Reb. I come to meet 700-

We were brothers-cace stain I have come unarmed to meet you. Let me not be heard in vain: Though your rage attest develop To your failing, dying cause, Lat us cease this fietce commotion And resume our saciest laws. The me drop the weither trappings And renew our civil dress, Moppy in the common country You and I were taught to blass; The picket leaning on his musket Pondered e'er what he had heard. Then among his comrades hastened Shouting, "Feace," a magic word. Soon it reached the Southern chieftain And recalled the days of yore, When he lived in peace and pleaty: Contrast now he must deplore. Then he saw his racced a my Which he loved of earth most dear. And he saw each brigade dwindle

For they heard them tell the story Of the suits at Marble Half. Then the chieffain bereft of glery. Said, "I will surrender all. And permit myself and soldiers To buy clethes at Marble Hall." SMITH BROS. & CO., Clothiers, Merchant Tations and Dealers in Gent's Furnishing Goods.
