O willow, why for ever weep. As one who mourns an endless wrote What hidden wee can ite so deep? What utter grief can last so leng? The Spring makes haste with step clate Your life and beauty to renew; She even bids the roses walt, And gives her first sweet care to you. The welcome redbresst folds his wing To pour for you his freshest strain;

To you the excitest blasbirds sing. This all your light stems thatil ogain. The sparryw trills his wedding song And trusts his tender brood to you; Fair flowering vines, the summer long; With clasp and kiss your beauty woo. The sanshine drapes your limbs with

The rain braids diamonds in your heir, The breeze makes love to you at might-Yet still you droop, and still deepair. Beneath your boughs, at fall of dew, By lovers' lips is softly told The tale that all the ages through Has kept the world from growing old. But still, though April's bads anfold,

Or Summer se's the earth aleas. Or Autumn pranks your robes with gold. You sway and sigh in graceful grief. Mourn on forever unconsiled. And been your secret, faithful tree! No heart in all the world can hold A sweeter grace than constancy.
