LETTER FROM THE SEASIDE.

CAPE ISLAND, August 4, 1865.

Mr. Editor:—The extraordinary gathering of visitors to the Cape during this memorable season of peace, plenty and prosperity, has literally taxed to the utmost the elastic [illegible] of hotels, boarding houses and cottages, but has energized the enterprise of property holders. They say that accommodations shall keep in advance of the demand. This morning, carefully prompted me to inquire into the present capacity of public houses, and to get some other statistics interesting to the traveller.

Cape Island is a city with its mayor and aldermen, thus having all [illegible] facilities for laying out streets and [illegible] keeping them in good order. What is [illegible] yet better, the municipal code provides [illegible] police laws requisite to the comfort [illegible] and protection of the multitude—They are a shield to the well disposed and a terror to evil doers.

Yet, in this wicked world, bad men will sometimes get the start even of those who bear the symbols of power. So at the Cape we have had the monotony of law and order broken by several quite original larcenies, both petty and grand.

One adventurous son of Mercury made a general capture of watches at mid-day while the population was enjoying the bath. The rooms were entered from the portico windows. A gentleman awoke last night just in time to see an agile thief escaping from the window. An attack was made, but the offender vamosed by sliding down the pillar, receiving as he went the compliments of the wash bowl, the fragments of which attract the attention of the curious and are regarded as trophies of an attack upon a retreating foe. These little episodes do not detract from the general gaiety, but teach the wholesome lesson "not to trust in uncertain riches."

Now for the hotels. They rank for size in the order in which they are named and accommodate from 600 to 700 guests each—the Congress, Columbia, Atlantic, United States, Ocean, Centre, and American. The first three face the Ocean, the others are within easy walking distance, all have numerous bathing houses and conveniences, but perhaps the Columbia for comfort, in this respect, takes the lead.

There are eight other hotels which accommodated from 100 to 150 persons each. Besides these there are many boarding houses and numerous private houses, which during a season like this, when travellers come in swarms, furnish lodgings for the weary. The largest number of visitors that can be accommodated comfortably is about 3,000. It is estimated that more than 3,500 are here today.

The plans for enlarging Congress Hall are completed. The work will commence early in September and be finished June 1st, 1866. The hall will then be a splendid edifice, having apartments for 1,500 guests

Visitors generally complain of the minute proportions of the rooms and the plainness or absence of all convenient furniture. This complaint is just. The United States is the only Hotel which has really comfortable family rooms, in which Mr. Dick might not only swing a cat, but fly his kite. But who cares about the room. The plunge into the surf, the stroll on the beach, the flirtation on the lawn or the perspiration in the ball-room, occupy all the time which can be spared from sleep and the dining hall.

So much for hotels—to-morrow you will hear of the various expedients for killing time and emptying plethoric purses which resists have devised and to which amiable visitors, young men and maidens, cheerfully yield.

Yesterday, I am told, that the Vestry of the Episcopal Church purchased at public sale a fine lot for $2,300, upon which to erect their church edifice. Plans have been furnished by a Philadelphia architect, and the work will be pushed on promptly, so as to be completed in time for the next season. Rev. Mr. Langdon, of Havre de Grace, is the minister in charge. He conducts a daily service and celebrates twice each Sunday.

This piety and pleasure mingle their good works, and in the midst of virtuous enjoyment the people are not forgetful of Him who makes the refreshing wind to blow and the health giving waves to roll by the

LETTER FROM PRINCE GEORGE'S.

[Correspondence of the Baltimore Clipper.]

THE GARDEN, Prince George's county, August 5, 1865

Health in the Country—A Hint to the President—Father Neptune's Treatment—The Lady of the White House a Good Sailor—A Successful Administration.

A few miles from Havrewood is the beautiful and romantically situated Walnut Grange, whose in a sweet and sheltered nook I am now writing. How refreshing the shade, the verdant lawn, the trimly kept flower garden, the meadows covered with cattle, and the thick woods, after the din and dust and glare of a day in the city! An evening in this quiet rural region is the best of restoratives after the exhaustion of Departmental labor; and a sound sleep in the country air is balmy indeed. I am ready always to start in the morning upon another round of engagements and exertions

If the President would only give up that unwholesome White House altogether at this season, and repair to some country residence, going to the city for a few hours each day, if required by business, his health would be quite restored. His present indisposition, however, proceeded from sea sickness. During their aquatic excursion the Presidential party got a taste of Old Neptune's way of entertaining landsmen, when they venture to far on his dominions. A tax at the mouth of the Potomac, or on the Chesapeake, is sometimes rough enough to disturb any system unaccustomed to such treatment, and the President being of a bilious temperament, has suffered from it more or less ever since.

Mrs. Patterson, his second daughter, who during the illness of her mother is the presiding lady of the Executive Mansion, and who accompanied the President on that voyage, is a better sailor. And though Mr. Johnson has been obliged to deny himself to the importunate crowds who still persist in their desire to see him on their various small affairs, Mrs. Patterson does the honors of the White House to those who call upon her in the evening with a graceful and cordial affability, which is very winning and attractive, and promises to make the feminine administration of the Executive Mansion quite as popular as there is every reason to believe her father's will be.

I had the pleasure of spending an evening there recently, in company with a Tennessee lady who, under a former regime, occupied a most distinguished place in Washington society, the widow of the late Aaron V. Brown, Governor of Tennessee, and at the time of his death Postmaster General. There was something very engaging in the air of frankness and ease with which these ladies met.

Their male relatives had been in open and hostile antagonism during the rebellion; but now they, themselves, recognized in each other only the claims to mutual kindness, respect and confidence so becoming women of culture and influence from the same State.—It is not trespassing, I trust, beyond the bounds of propriety to add that Mrs. Patterson is personally well qualified to impart grace and dignity to whatever devolves upon her in the receptions of the White House.—Henry Clay, once, at the close of a pleasant evening, said to Mrs. James K. Polk, in that gay tone which was so delightful to hear:—"Madam, I have never heard any body speak of your administration but with praise;—though I have occasionally heard some slight complaints against your husband's!" I have no doubt that the ladies of the Executive Mansion now, will be at least equally successful. These allusions would be out of place in a public journal, were it not for the fact that they relate to matters in which the nation must ever have a deep concern; and in regard to which the public curiosity is perverted; nor can that curiosity be properly thought morbid or indecorous.

THE EXECUTIVE MANSION NOT A DEPARTMENT.

I am of opinion that much of the pressure upon the Chief Magistrate would be abated, if all persons would remember that, after all, the business of applicants will, in most instances be referred to the Executive Departments to which the cases belong. It is not at all probable that the President will even entertain appeals from the decisions of the Departments as a general thing, for the obvious reason that the acts of the heads of those Departments are his acts. Were he to undertake to reopen the cases settled by his executive subordinates, to re-examine their details, with a view of reversing or modifying the decisions of those functionaries, it is manifest he would have no time for his own appropriate and higher duties. Such procedure would be entirely impracticable, and would only lead to confusion and conflict, even if it could be carried out.

Colonel Browning and General Murrey, the President's Secretaries, have introduced a degree of system and order in the Executive office which greatly facilitates the transaction of business by all who really have matters before their Chief, which may with propriety be brought under his special notice. Those who calmly from curiosity or compliment, or to enforce by personal importunities the subjects they may happen to have on hand, ought not to complain if they have to await the President's leisure.

Orphans' Court—The following business was transacted in this court on Saturday:

Letters testamentary on the estate of John Conrad Ludwig Brueseke, were granted to Magdalena Brueseke.

MARRIAGE IN HIGH LIFE.—On Wednesday afternoon, Rear Admiral Dahlgren was united in wedlock to Mrs. Goddard, the daughter of the late Hon. Samuel Vaston, of Ohio, who, in his day, was one of our most distinguished men. The accomplished lady is well known in Washington circles, not only in private life but as an authoress. The marriage took place at 5 P. M., at the house of the Rev. Dr. Cummings, the pastor of St. Stephen's Church, and it was conducted in a quiet and unostentatious way. The Admiral is said to be about 55, and his lady is about 25 years his junior. There were but a few persons present at the ceremony.—N. Y. Express.

THE ONLY SLAVE COUNTRIES.—The only two countries which now maintain slavery are Spain and Brazil. A French journal states that Brazil will be the first to abolish it. Measures have already been prepared in the Senate looking to this object. The terrible war in the United States, and the equally terrible calamity caused by trying to uphold the "institution," are unfortunate examples to the countries which cling to it, and the question is being asked whether it is not better to try and get rid of it by other than violent means. A question like this is like to bring it about by one means or the other.

☞ A St. Louis policeman fired a dog at the corner of 5th street and Washington avenue. He missed up with a new test of the unexpecting canine, leveled a pistol within about four feet of the animal's head, pulled the trigger and missed as clear as a whistle. The bullet struck a stone, glanced and entered the third story of a house where it killed in the under der of a young lady.

MARYLAND FARMS FOR SALE IN EVERY COUNTY.

From $1,000 to $60,000 and Upwards.

The following is a partial list of Farms I have now for sale, comprising some of the most valuable Tracts and Finest Estates in Maryland:

FARM of 225 acres situated in Howard county, on the county road three miles west of the Relay House, 10 miles from the city of Baltimore. It is approached from the Washington turnpike on the south and from the county road from the west and north. The land is in good condition, twenty-five bushels of wheat per acre and other cereals in proportion, have been raised; has an abundance of pure spring water and is considered one of the healthiest places in the State; has an abundant supply of fruit of all kinds, about 2,000 trees just coming into bearing this season. The garden of about 4 acres has a large supply of grapes of various kinds; raspberries, Lanier blackberries, gooseberries, currants, strawberries, dwarf pears, &c., &c. Two never failing streams of pure spring water pass through the place, watering every field one of which supplies a large pond from which the house is supplied with ice. The improvements are a stone rough cast dwelling house 34 by 40 feet with very large back buildings built in the most substantial manner 9 years ago by the then owner for his own occupancy, and no expense having been spared to make it complete in every respect. A wide plank extends the whole front of the house. The first floor consists of a parlor, sitting room, dining room, library room, a large and substantial fire proof safe, and wide hall running through the centre of the house, main room, large winter and summer kitchens, and wood house on same level. Second floor contains six large chambers in main building, two bed rooms, bath room, &c., in back building; every room except the parlor have large and very convenient closets; hot and cold water throughout the house, bells in each room, also gas pipes through about the house; a large, dry cellar under the whole house; Chelson's largest size furnace, heats the entire house; cooking range, &c., in kitchen; in short, every convenience usually found in a built house. The house stands on an elevated position from which nearly all parts of the farm, and from its roof the city of Baltimore, as well as the surrounding country for many miles, can be seen, and is surrounded by oak, hickory and chestnut trees of large size, as well as a profusion of evergreens. The other improvements consist of an ice house 20 feet square, now filled with the purest ice, winter and summer dairy, one of the best constructed barns in the county, 81 by 56 feet, which is supplied with water, overseer's house, gate house, &c. The hen house and corn crib are of unique construction and considered to be superior.
