Joy smiled upon that family board One holy Sabbath morn, Where early manhood's hopes were . With pleasures yet unbern. And then, as at that cheering beard vat perents, side by side. The ather's eldest born was there. The mether's year ger pride. Admiring angels well might look Un such a scene as this. Where love sat smiling at the board, To been each heart with blise. Apar seruply sectors acte pater Mocked was their tannied power, And hopes that seemed too bright to fade,

Were brighter in that hear.

Another Sabbath mora has come. Where are the loved ones now ! What meens these tear-bedizoned eyes, Those cleuds upon the brow? They tall how value are human hopes, Though good is seeming given; How false to promised earthly blus, A24 yet how true is Heaven! For some amid this stricken throng Can lift the pall of gloom, And none can bring the loved once back. Or save them from the tomb! The cruel waves have yielded up.

Their booies that we prize: But G:d has called their spirits bome, To dwe'l in paradise. And now, as at their opening tomb, The sacred pledge is given, To marmer not at God's decrees, But live for Him and Heaven!
