NEW ORLEANS, Sept's 11 .-- The Matamoras Monitor contains an interesting correspondence between General Mejia and General Steele. The former complains that Cortinas had fired on a body of Imperialists while in transit, taking refuge in Texas.

General Steele replies, regretting any violation of the international laws, and says that it was against his express injunction. Cortinas, he said, had com plained of a similar outrage on the part of Gen Mejia's men.
