SALTIMORE AND LIVERPOOL STEAM LINE. (From the Richmond Bulletin.)

We publish this morning an advertisement that the Somerset steamer will leave Baltimore for Liverpool on the 30th inst direct communication between a Southern port and Europe marks an era in progress. and is an extrest and an indication of the anergy with which Southern people lay restoration of their prosperity. We speak on the sofa. of Southern people, because it must obviously be by Bouthern patronage that the Baltimore line will be maintal ned.

This line will be worked under some disadvantages, which the cordial co eperation of the Cheespeake and other Southern cities can and will obviate. It is plain that Southern travel will not go by rail or steamboat up the Bay to Baltimore, be- as could be imagined; had seen the mul cause they must again come down the he the stockade after a rais, at least Bar to the Capes to get out to ses, and then again make the latitude of Baltimore on their ocean voyage. This obligation traverse the same ground so often would probably induce the traveller being at Baltimore to proceed to New York and take a steamer direct.

The suggestion which we would therefore make to the projectors of an enterprise which we desire sincerely to succeed that every tacility shall be granted to the Chesapeaks cities to connect with the Liverpool line at Norfolk, se that each may contribute its quote of freight and The advices from Havana state that a passengers, and so work the line as a common carrier from the Capes of Virginia to tests were floored, and there seemed to be no
