B 136 - 156 &c. put in possession of same in 1782 and continued in possession of same until his death; it was also then agreed that the other two tracts should be sold and Pattison should have to his own the proceeds of so many acres as "Town Land" contained and the proceeds of residue be equally divided between them. Said contract was authorized by Pattison holding in his possession the tract called "Trent" which he devised to his brother.

(next)

B 136 - 156 &c. and Pattison, together with Alex. Frazier, attorney for said Westeneys, sold the other tract to Walter Harrison. Pattison died without having conveyed said tract and was seized in fee simple and devised the fee in said land to his brothers and sisters, being heirs at law of James Pattison, all of whom are since dead. John Westeneys died possessed of "Town Land" and devised all his lands to be sold by his executors. (next)

B 136 - 156 &c. His executors declined acting and administration was granted to Thomas Salman, who was appointed trustee in 1817, but he refused trust and same was granted to Benjamin Pindell, who said said tract to Joseph Morton 1817.

- 163 A. E. Addison appointed trustee to convey "Town Land" to Joseph Morton 1828.
