Save the Date!

October is American Archives Month, and the Maryland State Archives will be celebrating by hosting a free Family History Festival on Saturday, October 4, 2014 from 10:00am to 4:00pm in Annapolis. This open house-style event will feature demonstrations on caring for your family papers and pictures, behind-the-scene tours, a chance to ask questions of genealogy experts, and children's activities.

Who Can You Call?

The Maryland State Archives is made up of several departments that offer a variety of services to government agencies as well as to the public. If you aren't certain who at the Archives to contact with your questions or requests, you can always reach our Help Desk at 410-260-6487 or msa.helpdesk@maryland.gov. The Help Desk will answer your questions and fulfill your requests or make certain that your inquiry is forwarded to the proper department for completion. Our Help Desk is also available to the public, so feel free to share this contact information with any of your patrons who wish to contact the State Archives.

Also, don't forget that our homepage at <http://msa.maryland.gov/> has a lot of general information to help answer the most common questions about Archives services.

In the market to have your permanent records digitized?

Contact the Maryland State Archives at 410-260-6467 or msa.helpdesk@maryland.gov to find out more about the scanning and online access services that we offer.
